Equipment operators in the earthmoving, civil construction and mining industries tend to be predominantly male - and this was reflected in the recruitment of TGO's initial workforce.

Since commencing operations in January 2014 TGO has adopted a strategy to employ a substantial number of female trainees – and develop these trainees over time into competent mobile equipment operators (trucks, graders, dozers and excavators).

Our philosophy, now in operations, is not to recruit externally for experienced operators but wherever possible to develop our own workforce through training and internal promotions.

We are at a stage where 18% of our mine operations employees are female. Initially these females were employed as trainees and over time these female employees will be trained and developed and through promotion will be classified as graders, dozers and excavators.

In relation to retention the TGO operation only commenced in January 2014 and has sourced the majority of its employees from the local region. The business has experienced a moderate level of turnover during the last 15 months and is certainly not at a level which is of a concern or effects business performance.

Gender equality indicator 2: Gender composition of governing bodies

2 Does your organisation, or any organisation you are reporting on, have a governing body/board?

- Yes
 No

2.1 Please complete the table below. List the names of organisations on whose governing bodies/boards you are reporting. If no target has been set for that particular governing body/board, please enter the number 0 in the '% Target' column and leave the 'Year to be reached' column blank. Otherwise, please enter a number from 0-100 in the '% Target' column and a date in the format of YYYY in the 'Year to be reached' column.

4.2 Should you wish to provide additional information on any of your responses under Gender equality indicator 3, please do so below:

The remuneration strategy for Alkane and TGO is essentially to provide salaries and benefits that are capable of attracting and retaining good calibre people and ensuring that salaries are competitive within the context of the overall mining industry and/or within the region where we source labour.

Due to the relatively small numbers in the Head office and Exploration Division the salaries tend to be pitched as appropriate for the role and for the skills and experience the incumbent brings to the role.

However at TGO there is a structure for salaries which provides a salary for each particular level e.g.

Salary Level	Mining	Processing	Laboratory	Geology
Entry	Trainee	Entry Level	Lab Tech	Pit Tech
Level 4	Truck Driver	Operator Level 4	Lab Tech Exp	Geology Tech
Level 3	Wheel Dozer	Operator Level 3	-	-
Level 2	Dozer	Operator Level 2	-	-
Level 1	Excavator	Operator Level 1	-	-
Senior	Leading Hand	Senior Operator-	-	-

In terms of placing an individual employee at a particular salary level the Company takes into account a range of factors including:

- service with the Company
- skills which the employee brings to the Company
- skills which the employee requires with the Company
- the role the employee is performing

The determination of salary is made on the basis of formal workplace assessments – and it is immaterial whether the employee is a male or female.

Examples

(1) There are 26 employees classified as Truck Drivers in the Mining Department – 8 females (31%) and 18 males (69%)

All Truck Drivers are paid the same salary - $70350

(2) There are 4 employees classified as Wheel Dozer Operators in the Mining Department – 1 female (25%) and 3 males (75%)

All four Wheel Dozer Operators are paid the same salary - $73500

The issue is that mobile equipment operators are predominantly male – and when TGO recruited its workforce of skilled employees it was a predominantly males who had the higher paying roles. This is reflected in the difference between males and females in the “Machinery Operators and Drivers” salary data.

However over the last 12 months TGO has been employing females in trainee roles – and in time we expect that these female employees will be trained and developed to be able to be promoted into the high paid positions of Excavator Operator, Dozer Operator and Leading Hand roles.
